

LANITY

THE LAN IS ALWAYS OPEN.

STREAMER KIT · VERSION 1 · NOVEMBER 2026

Stream from the LAN.

LANITY is an online LAN party: tables, parties, crews and a Lounge for the games you already play. This guide covers what you get as a streamer, what we ask in return, and how to set up in about ten minutes.

Free to use · No contract · No exclusivity · 18+ community · Works with Twitch and Discord

What you get
Page 2

Set up and what we ask
Page 3

Stream ideas, this kit, FAQ
Pages 4 to 6

WHAT YOU GET

A place your community can show up to, not just a chat.

You don't just log in to LANITY. You show up: everyone can see who's around, what they're playing and what they can join. Here's what that gives you and your viewers.

Live at the LAN

Link your Twitch and, while you're live, you show in the Lounge, in the room of the game you're streaming (when it's one of LANITY's games) and on your profile. Players can choose `Watch here` to play your stream muted right on LANITY, or `Open on Twitch` to go to your channel.

Your friends hear you're live

When you go live, your LANITY friends get a note in their Pulse with `Watch` (at most once every 6 hours), plus a phone notification if they've turned on friends going live.

Raid the LAN

While you're live, the Live at the LAN panel shows `Copy raid` beside every other LANITY streamer who's live. Paste it in your Twitch chat to send your viewers their way, and they can do the same for you.

Play with your viewers

Host a table in any game room (public, or private with an invite link), or start a party of 2 to 8 and bring it to a table at once. List your open seats and anyone looking for a group can pull up a chair.

Free agents to pick up

Solo players list themselves on Parties → Free Agents with their game, mic and when they're ready. From your party choose `Invite to my party`, or `Call to my table` when you're seated at their game.

A clubhouse: your crew

Start a crew for your community: your colors, banner and logo, crew chat, crew events with reminders, a weekly goal, up to 3 officers to help run it, and a Discord voice link only your crew sees.

Watch parties

Start a watch party in the Lounge and everyone in it watches the same Twitch channel or YouTube video and chats along. YouTube stays in sync, and members can queue what's up next.

Events and tournaments

Post crew events; players who choose Going get reminders an hour before, 10 minutes before and at the start. Tournaments are free to enter, with no cash prizes.

Clips and game clocks

Put up to 6 clips (YouTube, Twitch, Medal or Streamable) on your profile; clips tagged with a game show in its room. Some rooms have a clock (Diablo IV's Helltides and world bosses, patch days, resets) to plan streams around.

SET UP IN ABOUT TEN MINUTES

Get on the LAN

1 Get your account

While LANITY is in Alpha it's invite-only: use the invite link we sent you, or ask at lanity.gg/request-invite. LANITY is for adults, so you'll confirm you're 18 or older once.

2 Link your Twitch

Settings → Live at the LAN → Link your Twitch. You sign in at Twitch only to prove the channel is yours: LANITY asks Twitch for no permissions and keeps no Twitch password or token. LANITY checks Twitch every couple of minutes, so you can take a few minutes to show up after you go live.

3 Make your profile yours

In Settings: My games (what you play and want to try), How I play, Platforms and gaming IDs, My setup and up to 6 Clips.

4 Start a crew for your community

Crews → Create a crew: a name, a tagline, your colors, banner and logo. Add your Discord server's invite link in its Voice panel so your crew has one place to talk.

5 Bring your viewers

Add the panels and the !lanity command from this kit to your channel. Every player has invites to give out (The LAN → People → Invite friends); if your community needs more, ask us.

WHAT WE ASK

Six things, all simple

1. Link your Twitch on LANITY so players can find you when you're live.
2. Play on LANITY with your community now and then: host a table or a party and invite your chat in.
3. Add a LANITY panel to your Twitch About section, with a link to LANITY.
4. Say where you are. When you're playing on LANITY, mention it, or show the "Playing on LANITY" overlay from this kit.
5. Keep it LANITY: follow the Community Guidelines (lanity.gg/guidelines), keep your LANITY spaces 18+, and ask players before you put them on stream.
6. Tell us what's working and what isn't. LANITY is in Alpha, and streamers' feedback shapes what we build next.

That's it. LANITY is free: no fee, no contract and no exclusivity. Stream wherever and whatever you like, and stop any time: turn off Show me when I'm live, or Unlink.

STREAM IDEAS

Things that work well on LANITY

Viewer tables

Host a private table and drop its invite link in chat, or list open seats so anyone looking for a group can pull up a chair. As host you can free an Away chair between matches.

Helltide runs and patch nights

Rooms with a clock have a button to start a table for it: a Helltide run in Diablo IV, a patch night in League of Legends, a reset night in Battlefield.

Free agent pickups

Check Free Agents for your game and invite a solo player into your party. Ask them first if they're happy to be on stream.

Crew nights

Post a crew event for your regular night. Officers can call the whole crew to a table once an hour.

Watch-alongs

Run a watch party in the Lounge for a VOD review or a big match, with polls and slow mode when chat gets busy.

End with a raid

Finishing up? Copy raid on another LANITY streamer who's live and keep the night going for your viewers.

WHAT'S IN THIS KIT

FILE	WHAT IT'S FOR
Twitch panels	twitch-panels/ three 320 × 160 panels for your About section: About LANITY, Play with me on LANITY, Join my crew. Suggested panel text is in copy/panel-text.txt.
Overlays	overlays/ a "Playing on LANITY" badge (transparent PNG, 1200 × 300) and the same badge placed on a 1920 × 1080 transparent layer for OBS or Streamlabs.
Screens	screens/ 1920 × 1080: a "Find me on LANITY" screen for breaks and an offline banner for your channel.
Social	social/ a 1080 × 1080 post image; text to go with it is in copy/social-posts.txt.
Logos	logos/ the LANITY lockup and mark (transparent PNGs) for your own graphics.
Chat commands	copy/chat-commands.txt a ready-made !lanity command for Nightbot, StreamElements or Fossabot.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Good to know

Does it cost anything?

No. LANITY is free to use, and tournaments are free to enter (there are no cash prizes). There's no fee, no contract and no exclusivity.

Do I have to stop using Discord?

No. Voice stays on Discord: a party, a table, a crew or a Lounge room can have one Discord invite link, and only the people in that place see it. LANITY never sees or hears voice.

What does LANITY get from my Twitch?

Only proof that the channel is yours. LANITY asks Twitch for no permissions, keeps no Twitch password or token, and linking is never a way to sign in to LANITY. One Twitch channel per LANITY account.

How quickly do I show up when I go live?

LANITY checks Twitch every couple of minutes, so it can take a few minutes. You show while you're live and drop off when your stream ends. Titles, categories and viewer counts are Twitch's.

I stream on YouTube or Kick.

Live at the LAN shows Twitch streams today. You can still put YouTube clips on your profile, play YouTube videos in a watch party, and use everything else in this guide.

Who can see me?

Profiles and Live at the LAN are for signed-in players. Players you've blocked, or who blocked you, don't see you. Gaming IDs can be shown to friends only or to everyone signed in.

Can I turn it off?

Yes. Settings → Live at the LAN: turn off Show me when I'm live to stop showing up and stop telling your friends (your link stays), or choose Unlink.

How do my viewers join?

LANITY is for adults (18+). While it's invite-only in Alpha, viewers join with an invite link from you, or ask at lanity.gg/request-invite. Each invite works once, for 14 days. If your community needs more, ask us.

Which games?

Every game has its own room with tables, open seats, clips and game news: Apex Legends, VALORANT, Fortnite, League of Legends, Counter-Strike 2, Call of Duty, Diablo IV, Overwatch, Marvel Rivals, Rocket League and many more, on PC, PlayStation, Xbox and Switch.

Does LANITY read my game?

No. Game clocks are worked out from each game's published schedule, and Diablo IV zones are posted by players. LANITY isn't affiliated with any game publisher.

What happens if someone causes trouble?

Anyone can be blocked or reported from their profile, and table hosts and party leaders can remove a player. The LANITY team reviews reports against the Community Guidelines.

Is there an app?

LANITY runs in your browser on any device. Turn on notifications in Settings for calls, invites and messages on your phone (on iPhone, add LANITY to your Home Screen first).

USING THE LANITY NAME AND LOGO

Brand basics

Use the files in this kit as they are. They're made for dark backgrounds, which is how most stream layouts look.

Do

- Use the logos, panels and overlays from this kit.
- Write LANITY in capitals.
- Link to lanity.gg or your own invite link.
- Say you play on LANITY or that your crew lives there.

Don't

- Recolor, stretch or add effects to the logo.
- Present yourself as LANITY staff, or as a sponsored or official partner, unless we've agreed it with you.
- Imply LANITY is made by or tied to a game publisher.
- Show private invite links on screen unless you want anyone to use them.

COLORS

Night #05080F

Cyan #00E5FF

Violet #8758FF

Magenta #F04BFF

Green #22E07A

YOUR CHECKLIST

- [ ] Account made, 18+ confirmed
- [ ] My games and How I play filled in
- [ ] Panels added to your Twitch About
- [ ] Overlay added to your LANITY scenes
- [ ] Twitch linked (Settings → Live at the LAN)
- [ ] Crew created, Discord link added
- [ ] !lanity command set up
- [ ] First table or party hosted with your chat

QUESTIONS, MORE INVITES, FEEDBACK

support@lanity.gg

Tell us your Twitch channel and your LANITY username, and what you need.

The LAN is always open.

See you at the LAN.

— The LANITY team